

THE FINNS ARE NUMBER ONE AGAIN 1/2

The Czech Republic ranks as the 18th happiest nation in the world, according to the annual World Happiness Report published by the nonprofit organization SDSN, which is affiliated with the United Nations. The Finns once again claimed the top spot in the rankings, marking their sixth consecutive year at number one. In general, the Nordic countries consistently perform best in these evaluations.

The ranking is based on a variety of factors, including life expectancy, gross domestic product, levels of corruption in public institutions, social support, and the degree of freedom in making important life decisions. Finland excels in all these aspects, followed closely by Denmark, then Iceland, Israel, the Netherlands, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, Luxembourg, with New Zealand rounding out the top ten.

According to one of the study's authors, John Helliwell, the COVID-19 pandemic did not significantly affect the rankings. "Despite these challenging times, positive emotions remained more prevalent than negative ones, and feelings of social support triumphed over loneliness," Helliwell told CNN.

THE FINNS ARE NUMBER ONE AGAIN 2/2

Afghanistan is Last

In the second tier of the happiest nations are Austria, Australia, Canada, Ireland, the USA, Germany, Belgium, the Czech Republic, the United Kingdom, and Lithuania, which has made a significant jump from its previous position of 52nd over the past six years. "This is essentially the same story that has played out in the rest of Central and Eastern Europe," Helliwell said, adding that former Soviet Union states have undergone significant development since the 1990s and are now more secure in their new identities.

On the opposite end of the ranking, Afghanistan holds the position as the least happy country. Just above it are Lebanon, Sierra Leone, Zimbabwe, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Botswana, Malawi, Comoros, Tanzania, Zambia, and Madagascar.

GAME REVIEW - SKYRIM

It is a fantasy game where you start as a prisoner and don't know what's going on. When you first wake up you will be welcomed by a famous line "Oh, you are finally awake", then you are brought into a city and guards are checking prisoners on a list but you aren't on the list and even the guards say that you shouldn't be here.

The captain doesn't care and still puts you on trial. Before you get on a guillotine a miracle happens and a dragon comes and starts totally destroying the whole city. From there you get to play and do whatever you want and wherever you want.

In this game there is magic, you can use bows, crossbows, swords, hammers, knives, and anything you can even imagine. At a certain point in the game, you should choose, but you do not have to, choose a class a warrior who uses two-handed weapons, one-handed weapons, and heavy armor, then there is a magician who uses every kind of magic you can imagine, and last but not least there is a class called thief with who you can easily steal anything and do stealth kills and more.

Even if you choose a warrior you still can steal, but it will be harder. I chose a warrior class and very much enjoyed the game. I had a lot of fun and certainly would recommend it. But it is not a game for people who are bad at games or never played any games, because you can't choose difficulty and when you progress the game gets very difficult at some points.
